RoomReady:
Meeting Room Intelligence

Everything just keeps getting smarter. Our phones recognize who's in our photos… our refrigerators know when we're low on milk… so why are meeting rooms still as clunky as ever? Why does starting a meeting so often require head-scratching, hair-pulling and calls for tech support?

At RoomReady, we've created a better way.

We innovate. You collaborate.

At RoomReady, we truly believe that meetings shouldn't waste your time. That's why we work hard to make every meeting room get better, every time it's used. Our approach? It's actually quite simple.

1

First, we mix our intelligent software and proven hardware to instantly transform your meeting space from a static room into a smart center for collaboration.

2

Then, we work closely with your team to implement strategies that prevent support issues. This means fewer issues for your team and more productivity for those in the meeting.

It's a customer-centric approach to understanding your meeting rooms…and it doesn't stop there.

While your users are enjoying a productive meeting, we're working behind the scenes to gather the critical data that helps you maximize the spaces you currently have, while also helping you prepare for the future. We capture things like:

- Usage patterns
- Meeting statuses
- Real-time incident reports
- And more

Simply put, we are your eyes in the room when you aren't there – whether in a single room, within a building, across a campus, or around the globe.

YOUR USERS want a tailored meeting experience that works instantly, on every device… in every room… every time.

YOU want insights into what problems are happening – as they happen – so they can be fixed today, as well as how rooms are being used so you can effectively plan for tomorrow.

YOU BOTH want to create a simple, reliable and hassle-free meeting room experience.

ROOMREADY gives you all of this – and a whole lot more.
